MONDAY EVENING, AUGUST 2.

PILFERING OF FRENCH SERVANTS -AD Amarican lady died in a private hespital in Paris. She was well to do in the wor'd, possessed a bacdsome wardrobe, and no icconsiderable amount of jewelry. When her trunkwere forwarded to her friends every erticle of any value had disapprared. There was not a piece of jewelry of any kind to be found, not even her waten. All am Her articles, such as lee a, handkerchiefs, stockings, etc., were mission. Some hours had undoubtedly been permitted to clapse be ween the time of her d ato and that of the sifixing of the scale, and the time had been made good use of. Theo there was a case that showed an audicity at pillering also gether uncommon, even on the part of a French servant, which took place at one of the fire ionable Paristan hotels some time ago. American lady, who was in del cate health, tor who was by no means e reid red an invalid either by her friends or horself, died suddenly from some malady of the heart during the temperary absence of the hu-band in America. This lady possessed a head of hair of u-wonted luxureacco and beauty, the loog, thick tresses when loss and is lieg alm so to the flor when she stood up, although she was by to means a short woman. When the budy was prepared for interment a lew hours after her sudden demise, every vertise of this marvel us hair had disappeared, and it was with difficulty that a friend of the family who was present contrived to fill a l ever us a relie for the absent busband. Suspicion pater by pointed to the favorite French mold of the diens d as the perpetracer of this auderious and socilegious theft, but there was no positive proof of herguilt. There were other persons who had acresi to the room where the body lay and the verdiet, as is neual in such cases when occurring to Americanabreat, was-no radress .- Philadelephia Tele greph Paris Letter.
